Diamond Spectacles.

THESE SPECTACLES are manufactured from "MINUTE CRYSTAL PEBBLES" melted together, and are called Diamond on account of their hardness and brilliancy. It is well known that spectacles cut from Brazilian or Scotch pebbles are very injurious to the eye, because of their polarizing light. Having been tested with the polariscope, the diamond lenses have been found to admit fifteen per cent. less heated rays than any other public. They are ground with great scientific accuracy, are free from chromatic abberrations, and produces a brightness and distinctness of vision not before attained in spectacles.
Manufactured by the Spencer Optical Manufacturing Comp New York. For sale by responsible agents in every city in the Union. H. A. HEATH & Co., Jewelers and Opticians, are sole Agents for Newport, R. I.,—from whom they can only be obtained. No peddlers employed. Do not buy any unless you see the trade mark ap

PRAYER A LA MODE.

Give me an eye to (how's the bright blind—
(Miss Smith's new bonnet?—quite a fetching—husband!)

Wake in the charity for the well-to-be!—
(There comes that cook to discharge—I know it!)

Take to-me my zeal all feelings overtoiless—
(I'll have a shawl like that—or make it!—)

Let love for all my kind my self shelf—
(Save Mrs. Jones! I'll never speak to her!)

Let me in Truth's fair paths take delight;
(I'll read that other novel through to-night!)

Make me confident with my sterility shine—
(I wish I'd married rich. But it's too late!)

Give me a heart of faith and my chief—
(Miss Brown's as big a hypocrite as you!—and)

Help me to love—good as others—
(This dress is quite becoming to me!)

Let me get out to fall—about, I appeal—
(I wonder if they think there's—the—two!)

Melt my heart of humanity the front
(How glad I am our pew's across the aisle!)

Fill me with pathos—and strength to work
(I know he'll preach until our dinner's—ready!)

Take from my heart each grain of evil concern—
(How sure the gentlemen have thank—you!)

Let saintly visions be my daily food—
(I wonder what they'll have for dinner—to-day!)

Let not my feet wake on the road to hell—
(Nobody knows how these shoes pinch—and hurt!)

In this world teach me to desire the next—
(Church out! Charles, do you recollect the text?)

Very Scotch Anecdote.

A person in the West of Scotland, who had engaged in the manufacture of a certain description of goods, then recently introduced into that part of the country, found it necessary, or conceptured it might be profitable, to establish a permanent connection with some respectable mercantile house in London. With this design he packed up a quantity of goods, equipped himself for the journey, and then departed. Upon his arrival he made diligent inquiry as to those who were likely to prove his best customers; and accordingly proceeded to call upon one of the most opulent dealers, with whom he resolved to establish a regular correspondence. When Saunders entered the draper's shop he found it crowded with customers and the clerks all bustling busily at the back of the counter handing out their several wares to their respective customers. Saunders waited what he thought a reasonable time, then laid down his pack, his bonnet, and staff upon the counter, and inquired, in his Good Scottish dialect, for "the head o' the House." One of the clerks asked what he wanted. The Scotsman's answer was, as usual, a question. "Want ye ought in my line sir?" "No," was the prompt reply of the person interrogated, who accompanied his monosyllabic negative with a look of contempt for the mean appearance of the ill-rigged Scottish merchant. "Will ye no tak'a look o' the goods, sir?" was Saunders next query. "No, not all! I have not time," replied the clerk; "take them away take them away." "Ye'll admire," perhaps, "find them worth yer while; and I'll doubtna but ye'll buy," said Saunders, as he coolly proceeded to untie and unstrap his burden. "Go away, go away," somewhat exasperated half a dozen times with great impatience, but the persevering Scotsman still persisted. "Get along, you old Scotch fool," cried the clerk, completely out of temper, as he pushed the already exposed contents of the back off the counter. "Get along, Saunders looked up in the individual's face with a wide mouth and an enlarged pair of eyes, then looked down to his estate that lay scattered among his feet, looked up again and exclaimed. "An' well ye ne crafty bought! But ye dinna ken, for ye hardly seen the goods yet!" and so saying he slowly gathered them up and replaced them on the counter. "Get out of the shop, sir," was the peremptory and angry command that followed his last appeal. Saunders, with great gravity and self possession, said, "Are ye in earnest, friend?" "Yes, certainly," was the reply; and that reply was succeeded by an unequivocal proof of sincerity on the part of the person who made it, which he picked up Saunder's bonnet and whacked it into the street. The next article that called forth Saunder's greatly and frequently sent showers of handsome upon the unprotected; their strong salt, however, appeared to be the gathering of snow in balls about the size of a water bucket, and gently dropping them upon the heads of people passing beneath the awnings, thus enhancing the interest of the occasion by creating a pleasing little illusion of snowslides and avalanches in the minds of the recipients of the attention. One crusty individual in the lower part of the city didn't like it, and expressed the belief that he didn't see any fun in such foolishness. In a second the assault upon him was resumed by the ladies; he threw back, and finally, as the firing ceased from pure exhaustion of the contestants, he remarked, as he endeavored to remove a few pounds of snow from around his neck, and made way from as small quantities dropped down his back, that he believed he hadn't enjoyed such a glorious spree in all his life.

"During the forenoon we met a Celestial emerging from his washhouse, escopied by an umbrella, and sang out to him, "Plenty snow, John!" He smole a smile and inquired, "You call him snow? Yes.' 'Ah, he belly pity.' Three minutes later he was running the blockade on K street, his umbrella in ribbons, a score of snowballs sticking about his head, and an expression upon his face that indicated a change of opinion and a belief that the snow was not half as pretty as he had at first believed.

"A Chinaman at Fourth and K streets, who had been pelted unmercifully, in great rage drew a knife and flew at Snooder, threatening to change the current of hostilities, and he doubtless would have got more than even but for Captain Stevens and Officer Harris, who took his arms away from him, and directed him to call at the station-house to get them today.

"During the day numerous impromptu cutters and sleighs made their appearance, some of them quite comfortable affairs, but the greater number little more than barb sapes. One individual had a sled, constructed of planks rounded at the end, with cross-pieces to hold them in place, and a huge crockery hogshead by way of box. He found the latter a great convenience when he had to stack down to avoid a shower of balls. There was also a four-in hand sleigh, with bells on the horses, etc., in which vehicle several gentlemen had a good time, and last evening went serenading. Another sleigh had a crockery crate for a box."

Saving Money.

It was observed that a certain covetous rich man never invited any one to dine with him.

"I'll lay a wager," said a wag, "I'll get an invitation from him."

The wager being accepted, he went the next day to the rich man's house, about the time that he was known to sit down to dinner, and told the servant that he must speak with his master immediately; for that he could save him a thousand pounds.

"Sir," said the servant to his master, "here's a man in a great hurry to speak with you, who says he can save you a thousand pounds."

Out comes the master, "What's that you say, sir? That you can save me a thousand pounds?"

"Yes, sir, I can; but I see you are at dinner. I'll go and dine myself, and call again."

"Oh, pray sir, come in, and take dinner with me."

"Sir, I shall be troublesome."

"Not at all."

The invitation was accepted, and dinner being over, the family retired.

"Well, sir," said the man of the house, "now to our business. Pray, sir, let me know how I am to save this thousand pounds."

"Why, sir," said the other, "I hear you have a daughter to dispose of in marriage."

"I have."

"And that you intend to portion her with ten thousand pounds."

"I do so."

"Why then, sir, let me have her, and I'll take her with nine thousand."

A Small Talent Well Used.

We have so often been called to do honor to great men, both living and dead, that it is refreshing to be able to turn aside from the glare and glitter which usually surround the world's heroes and devote a moment to the consideration of the claims for regard of a very humble and very obscure mortal who, having finished the little work he had to do, in a faithful manner, has gone to give an account of his stewardship where his talents will be clearly understood and his labors fairly rewarded.

Our subject was a negro, and an idiot. Small work for him to do, and little glory to be achieved, the world will say. Let us see what he did, and then determine if the world is correct in its conclusions.

This character man, who died the other day in Harrisburg, Pa., was known as "Crazy Dick." How he lived nobody seemed to know. His wants were few and easily supplied. He had no trade, profession or calling, for he was an idiot, and it was supposed could learn nothing. One thing, and one only, he could understand, and that was the railroad cars, when running, were to him objects of delight. From this simple fact poor Crazy Dick discovered his vocation. And so he became a watcher on the railroad at Harrisburg, to warn people on the track of the engine. His worked place was just south of the consciousness of duty well performed always confers. Dick knew exactly when every train, passenger or freight, was to come in and go out. Nevertheless a gold repeater was truly necessary in his case. No train arrived or departed that Crazy Dick at the depot did not have watchful eyes in every direction, and his warning voice, to men, women and boys to warn careless, and even danger. Above all, from impending danger. Above the hissing of the steam or the shriek of the whistle he heard the voice of the engineer, and "get off de track old gem from de engine," "Get off de track old gem from de engine," "All away, little boy, de cars are coming," "Get off de track old gem from de engine," "Get off de track old gem from de engine," "Get off de track old gem from de engine

Newport Daily News.

FRIDAY, DECEMBER, 19, 1873.

Work has been commenced on the bridge over the Hudson at Poughkeepsie which promises to be of great value to all New England. From the Scranton coal regions to Providence the bridge will make a reduction in distance if some short lines of railroad are built, of 122 miles. One or two transhipments of coal will be saved. The bridge and its approaches will be about a mile long. It crosses the river by five spans of 500 feet each, and the bridge is 194 feet above the surface of the river. The estimated cost is $2,600,000.

It affords us profound satisfaction to know that the new constitution has been adopted by the people of Pennsylvania by an immense majority in spite of the determined opposition of a ring more infamous if possible than the old ring of New York. Even Philadelphia gave it 25,000 majority. As one evidence of the fact that the press is generally on the right side of a question it is to be noted that only eighteen papers in the state opposed the constitution while two hundred and thirty or forty advocated it. The new constitution provides for such publicity in the proceedings of the legislature that much of the ring manipulation will hereafter be impossible. Happily nearly all special legislation is prohibited. Some wholesome limitations are imposed on railroads. The pardoning power is placed in the hands of a court of pardons of which the governor is only one member. It is to be hoped that the results of the constitution will be all that are expected.

PERSONALS.

.....The N. Y. Times thinks "that member of Congress who has not introduced a bill will soon be distinguished among his fellows."

.....A New Haven paper thinks "the Rev. George H. Hepworth is not an acquisition of which Christianity has any reason to be proud."

.....The grand jury in Hudson county, N. J., recently found an indictment against a justice of the peace, charging him with being a common nuisance.

.....The marquis of Westminster, with his London rent roll of $5,000,000 per annum, has not felt any ill effects from the last panic.

.....It cost a Detroit punster four front teeth to ask a mechanic named Wolf if he wasn't the animal in sheep's clothing so often referred to.

.....Gen. Baxter, of Rutland, Vt., comes out in a card denying that his fellow citizens have placed a costly monument over his remains. He hasn't got done fighting yet.

.....A Cincinnati lady offers to lay a wager that there is not a fashionable girl in Cincinnati but would rather stay away from church than wear a pair of single-button gloves. Nobody takes her up.

Mr. Tennyson visited the Woolwich arsenal lately and witnessed the casting of a cannon. After the operation was finished, he remarked: "Vulcan would be astonished if he saw how the thunderbolts of war are forged nowadays."

Mr. Philip Gilbert Hamerton, the author of "The Intellectual Life," thinks that "a bottle of champagne or claret will do most men no harm at dinner, while a glass or two taken at intervals during the day may do them all the harm in the world."

The trousseau of Secretary Belknap's bride was imported from Paris, and was altogether the richest costume ever aired in the Blue Grass region. The dress was fashioned from elegant white brocade, trimmed with half-yard dress fringe, and cut low-neck and long train, and was handsomely set off by a superb diamond locket, Oriental pearls and diamond bracelets.

Only a handsome and thoroughly accomplished young lady can secure the brilliant opportunity offered by the following advertisement in a Boston paper of today. "Wanted—A young lady as governess, twenty miles from Detroit, Michigan. Must be thoroughly competent to teach instrumental and vocal music, and the common English branches. Must be from sixteen to twenty-one years of age. Must send her picture on first application, and state age and accomplishments, or it will not be answered, and if thought worthy will receive a picture of our residence and full particulars. Salary, two hundred dollars a year and board. Address——."

Live Stock Matters.

An enterprising farmer of Western New York communicates his practice in the management of cows during the season when grass begins to fail. He says the great secret of feeding and rearing stock successfully, is to keep what you get—to save every pound of flesh and fat that is produced. The question lying back of that is, how shall the flesh and fat be retained? What to do and how to do it, is the question. Hitherto I have always begun feeding my cows meal in October, and continued the regular extra feed through November, and I made more butter in one of those autumn months than in any other month during the grazing season. I have a cup with flaring sides that holds, when dipped in and heaped up full, about two quarts of good Indian corn and oats, of equal parts, made of pure grain. I never cob my animals, being down on the cob system of management. With every fifteen bushels of corn and oats I mingle before the mixture is ground, about one bushel of flaxseed. This improves the quality of the feed for animals of any kind, as ground flaxseed, when mixed with grain, is far better for milch cows, for horses, for fattening sheep, or for young stock, than oil meal. I sow a little flaxseed every year for this purpose. I think this is the true way to make money; i.e., save all that is made without losing any portion. The little losses are what abstracts the profits.

Tom Corwin.

Mr. Corwin told an anecdote with finer effect than any of his contemporaries. He was witty, full of humor, and never failed in retort. His onslaught upon General Crary of Michigan, who had made a bitter attack upon General Harrison in the House of Representatives soon after his nomination at Harrisburg, will never be forgotten by those who heard it, or who read the admirable report of the speech made by reporter Stansbery, and published in the National Intelligencer. Crary was a man of considerable ability, and well esteemed in the House but he was so utterly demolished by Corwin's assault that he soon after retired to private life, whence he never emerged. And when Mr. Adams alluded to him as the late Mr. Crary, the quiet sarcasm convulsed the House. The story told by Mr. Corwin at President Van Buren's dinner party, in reply to the banter of Mr. Jenifer, of Maryland, in which the old man living in Ohio trusted that he would not be held responsible for the forty years which he had spent on the "Eastern Shore," has been too often published to bear repetition here.

Corwin's humor and sarcasm were of too delicate and subtle a nature to permit of their transfer to paper with much effect. His wit was spontaneous and unpremitated, but wonderfully telling. When the Abolition excitement was at its height he was invited to address a public meeting at Covington, opposite Cincinnati. It was apprehended that the ultra slavery men might interrupt him, so he determined to propitiate them by an anecdote. "Fellow-citizens," said he, "it is quite possible that some of you may suppose that my sympathies are with the negroes to such an extent that I would be glad to see them prosper at the expense of the superior race. I don't propose to refute this notion by argument or assertion, but I will give my bit of experience in relation to the blacks, from which you will be able to infer what my feelings toward them are likely to be. When I was quite a young man I went down the river to New Orleans on a flat-boat. I remained in that rather lively city for a couple of weeks, seeing what was worth looking at, until, my money being about spent, I bethought myself of returning. But one thing I had not seen, which I was told was one of the inevitable rights of the place. I must go to a quadroon ball. So, dressed in my best clothes, I called for a ticket to the ball, and was repulsed with the declaration, 'Colored folk not admitted.'"

Corwin was quite as dark as a quadroon.—[From "Recollections of an Old Stager," in Harper's Magazine for January.

The slavery question is now being seriously discussed among slave-owners in Havana. According to telegrams and letters from Spain, the government is determined to bring the question before the cortes for action, but desires that slave holders propose some plan of making the abolition of slavery a certainty without injuring seriously the agricultural prosperity of the island. Many prominent slave owners are in favor of treating the slaves the same as contracted Chinamen. It is doubtful whether the cortes will sanction such or a similar plan. The members of the Havana Abolition Society are increasing.

CONGRESSIONAL.

Mr. Dawes, of Massachusetts, from the ways and Means committee, has reported back the Senate amendments to the bill on the redemption of the loan of 1858. He moved concurrence in all the amendments. The amendments were concurred in, and the bill now goes to the President for his signature.

Mr. Stephens, of Georgia, presented a memorial from the Cuban meeting in New York, a few days since, in favor of Cuban belligerency. Referred to the committee on foreign affairs.

Mr Wilson, of Indiana, from the judiciary committee, has reported a resolution authorizing the committee to send for persons and papers in the inquiry as to the official conduct of John Husteed, of Alabama: also a resolution instructing the committee to inquire and report whether Judge Durell, of Louisiana, should be impeached for high crimes and misdemeanors, with power to send for persons and papers. Adopted.

Mr. Butler, of Massachusetts, claimed the right to report back Supplementary Civil Rights bill but the Speaker informed him that the Salary bill had the precedence, and everything done this morning was by unanimous consent.

Mr. Hale of Maine, declined to give way any further.

Mr. Butler thought that after Mr. Hale had yielded for whiskey, he ought to yield for civil rights. [Laughter.]

Senator Fenton has made a speech on the finances, in which he said it only remained for the government to enforce rigid economy in all departments of public service, that we may gradually retrace our steps until we reach the normal condition we had departed from during the war. Our redundant paper money renders the resumption of specie payments impossible. Every interest of the government and of the people concur in the policy of moderate taxes. He claimed that there must be a reduction of paper; that paper and specie shall bear a recognized relation to each other.

In the salary debate Gen. Butler spoke of the bowl of the newspapers as having been provoked because their dirty sheets were not allowed to go through the mails free. It was on that account that Congress had been pursued with a forty-jackass mad power. The trouble had arisen from the fact that the members did not stand together, but that they let the men up there (pointing to the reporters' gallery), who were held by the beauty of Congress, write diatribes against them and blacken them all over until the whole world was made to believe that members of Congress are worse than other men, instead of being, as they were, the chosen of the nation, and better, as a class, than men in any other profession either clergymen, lawyers or doctors, for when a clergyman got into Congress he was not specially conspicuous for virtue any more than the rest of them were. [Laughter.]

The Green Eyed Monster.

There is a man in New York city who is so very fond of his wife that he is jealous if a man looks within forty-five degrees of the direction in which she may happen to be. The other day a gentleman spoke to her, and he immediately threatened suicide. His wife was dispatched for a bottle of poison, which she had not up at the druggist's, consisting of a little water colored with licorice and bottled with a glaring poison label outside. When he threatened to take some of it, and actually poured some of it into a wine glass, she screamed for help and ran into another room, where she could watch him through the keyhole, and saw him coolly open the window and throw it out. She then rushed back, apparently frantic with grief, and implored him not to do the rash deed. He merely pointing at the glass, and lying down on the floor, began to kick out his legs like a jumping jack. She told him she was determined to share his fate, and swallowed the rest of the licorice water, whereupon he became really frightened, called the neighbors, confessed that he only shammed, and said if she only survived he would never trouble her again. Then she explained the ruse, and he was so mortified he tried to buy up the silence of the neighbors, but the story was too good to keep. He is thoroughly cured of his jealousy.

SAVE STABLE DUNG DRY WITH THE AMMONIA IN.—Some say sprinkle ground plaster on it in the stalls, but plaster even if dissolved will only fix the ammonia, but dissolved copperas will decompose the concentrated lyeriugen of the dung, entirely destroying its effluvia; instead of cleaning out the stall put on a little more litter and throw the dry dung into the centre of the stall; when the mass is so great as to require its removal it may be hauled and spread on grass land if free from snow, but if retained until spring it should be piled under cover. Stall manure thus saved not only retains all its ammonia, but it often saves the carting to the field of three times its weight in rain-water. J. J. Mechi calls it "shod manure."

TO KEEP APPLES.—Keep a uniform temperature of thirty six degrees—never vary more than four degrees. Dryness of the atmosphere must be sought. Exclusion of light is desirable, but not absolutely necessary. Apples keep better in shallow bins than in barrels—but when barreled, the barrels should be handed up on a dry, cool day.

LOCAL AFFAIRS.

—The U. S. steamer Mistletoe put in here this morning to replace the buoy at the south of Goat Island.

—Some patent springs, which work admirably, have been placed over the doors of the post office.

—Anthony Stewart has sold a lot of land 32x45 feet situated on Green street to Andrew Quinn for $1,400.

—Frederick Douglass was the guest of George T. Downing on his visit to this city yesterday.

—Mr. S. F. Pratt and wife of this city are at the Grand National, Jacksonville, Fla.

—The mechanical toys on exhibition at the store of Messrs. A. C. Titus & Co. are curious and well worth seeing.

—The Sunday school of the Second Baptist church intend having an interesting festival with a Christmas tree on Christmas night.

—The ladies of the United Congregational Church will hold a fair at the Osborne house, on church street this afternoon and evening, the proceeds of which will be devoted to the purchase of a parsonage.

—Mr. James A. Brown of this city has chartered the schooner Henry G. Fay, now at Boston, to take 2200 barrels of potatoes from this port to Savannah at 22 cents per barrel.

—It is really too bad for our shop keepers to fix up their windows, as they term it, and then during the evening to have them blockaded by a parcel of loafers, who completely obstruct the view for the passers-by.

—Lieut. Mecker is detached from the Torpedo Station and ordered to temporary duty on the Franklin, and on falling in with the Canandaigua to report for duty on board that vessel.

—The social of Aquidneck Engine Company No. 3 was a very enjoyable affair and was participated in by the members of the company and their lady friends. The music was furnished by Prof. J. F. O. Smith's orchestra and dancing was indulged till the small hours of morning. An excellent collation was furnished by Mr. Ramsden. The receipts of the social will be devoted to the purchase of a new uniform.

THE LECTURE.—Mr Frederick Douglass made at the Opera House last night a very able plea in behalf of John Brown. Of course under human law no defence of this man is possible, but the speaker took the ground that John Brown was acting under a sort of inspiration; that he was an apostle of human liberty and a martyr to his principles. In this view of his old friend, Mr. Douglass is joined by millions of people in the North. The description of Brown's sincerity indomitable energy and courage was very interesting and elicited frequent applause from the audience. It is doubtless true that in proportion as time carries us away from the Harper's Ferry raid our respect for the man who planned and made it, and was hanged for it, increases.

LONG WHARF MISSION.—The opening festivities of the Christmas season this year in Newport took place at the Seamen's Bethel last evening. The chapel and reading room were crowded, mostly with children. Religious services, led by Rev. Dr. Malcom, commenced the evening. The singing was by the children. Addresses were made by Rev. Samuel Adlam, Mr. John Allan, and Mr. Benjamin Mumford. A large number of admirable views from a magic lantern were shown by Mr. J. Appleby Williams. A Christmas tree, loaded with gifts for the children, and boquets of flowers, gave the chapel a cheerful look. A large number of useful presents were distributed, and the pleasant occasion then closed with a participation in liberal refreshment.

ADVERTISING CERTAINLY PAYS.—The announcement in yesterday's NEWS by Messrs A. C. Titus & Co. that a Christmas present would be given to the holder of their published card was the means of the disposing of over two hundred gifts in one hour last evening and the rush still continues, at last accounts, with unabated fury. We hear of one case of enterprise where a youngster collected all the cards he could, eleven in number, and came near making a corner in mugs which he obtained thereby. The demand at the newsrooms and this office for papers has been nearly as great and one continual No, No, has been said in reply to demands for papers. We say once for all that our press is a single cylinder only and in these short days we cannot meet such a demand for extras.

JUSTICE COURT.

FRIDAY.—Thomas Briggs and George Battine, miners under the age of eighteen years, were arraigned this morning before this court, upon a complaint for breaking and entering the dwelling house of Mrs. Rhoda Weaver on the Point and stealing therefrom. The both pleaded guilty and thereupon they were sentenced to the Providence Reform School for and during their minority.

William Crowell, William Wood, Benjamin Whitman and George Battine were arraigned upon a complaint for larceny of a lot of lead pipe from Isaac C. Kendall. They are all young boys, two being twelve years of age, one fourteen, and upon motion of Mr. Peckham, who appeared for the defense, their hearing was continued until one week from today.

The complaint against Mary E. O'Connell for failing to oust a tenant from her premises on Kinsley's wharf alleged to be kept for the illegal sale of intoxicating liquors, was quashed for informality both in the notice to the tenant, and in the form of the complaint.

An amusing incident happened the other day in Washington, on the arrival of a member of Congress and his family, including the baby, by the Baltimore and Potomac Railroad. The baby was forgotten in the hurry of leaving the cars, and only thought of upon the arrival of the family at the hotel. Then ensued a scene of wild excitement, but the little innocent was finally discovered calmly sleeping in the car exactly where it had been left.

POLLY TILLEY AND HER SHOP.

[On reading Lt. Gov. Van Zandt's lines on that subject in the Christmas Visitor.]

That candy shop, how vividly
It rises to my view,
For, in my early days, its glass top door
Familiarly I knew.

With portly frame and kindly face,
How oft I've met, within,
Dame Polly, and her handmaid too,
Betsy so neat and thin.

The poetry of age, says one
Of England's sweetest songsters,
Exclaims, "Oft when I was a boy
And played amongst the youngsters!"

While Childhood's poetry cries out
"Oh, when I am a man,
And in life's mighty works can join
And do and dare and plan!"

But childhood, youth and hoary age
Will vanish, all too fast,
For, ah, how swiftly sped the time
Through forty years now past.

Then what are worldly fame or pelf,
"Which perish in the using,"
Compared with joys beyond the grave,
On which my thoughts are musing.

Those joys good Mary Tilley knows,
And shall henceforth forever,
For, even while with us on earth,
She bathed in that pure river,

Which, flowing from the throne divine
Gives endless youth to mortals,
And well-them sweetly through the gates,
Which open wide their portals,

To those, who through their earthly days,
In humble sorrow toiled,
Unmindful of the cold world's scorn,
If on them Jesus smiled.

His healing, as in Galilee,
Once found her low roofed hut,
His holy presence entering in
"At eve, when doors were shut."

Her children, hieing home from prayer,
Found their lame mother healed,
By Him whose wonder working love
A Father has revealed.

Long years she lived to bless His name,
Who had His mercy shown
To her, whose inmost soul was bowed
Before his heavenly throne.

That we may share dear Polly's joy
Should claim our high endeavor,
Where earthly cares no more annoy,
She dwells with God forever!

The Grave of Admiral De Ternay, at Newport.

Mr. Anthony succeeded in getting a bill passed appropriating eight hundred dollars to defray the expenses of repairing the monument erected in the Trinity churchyard, Newport, to the memory of Chevalier De Ternay.

Mr. Anthony, in introducing the matter, referred to the circumstances of the death of the distinguished French Admiral, as follows:

The 11th of July, 1780, was a memorable day in the history of the country. On that day, the Chevalier Charles Louis d'Arsac de Ternay, an admiral in the French navy, Knight of the Order of St. John of Jerusalem, arrived off the coast of Rhode Island, and entered the harbor of Newport, with seven ships of the line, two frigates and several smaller armed vessels; and with a convoy of thirty-six transports, carrying between six and seven thousand troops, under the command of Count de Rochambeau.

This armament arrived at one of the dark periods of the unequal struggle which the American colonies were waging with the might of England; when baffled valor and disheartened patriotism looked, with faltering faith, to Heaven, for the succor which seemed to be denied to all human effort. A little while before, Washington had written to Joseph Reed, "I have almost ceased to hope."

The arrival of De Ternay and Rochambeau inspirited the country and filled its councils with new hope. They were received with every demonstration of official respect and of popular gratulation. The General Assembly presented an address to the two commanders; the city of Newport, which had long been renowned as the chief seat of culture and social refinement in America, welcomed them with a cordial and elegant hospitality, most grateful after their wearisome voyage of more than two months, and which called forth enthusiastic praises in the correspondence of the Duc de Lauzun and others of the French officers. The town was illuminated from pavement to steeple-top, fire-works blazed along the street, and bonfires lighted up the unequaled harbor, in which the friendly vessels were anchored, and on whose broad bosom the navies of the world might ride with ample space and safety.

I need not refer to the extensive operations that were formed by the French commanders in consultation with Washington and the chiefs of the Continental army; nor to the causes which postponed the execution of these plans, and so long delayed the realizations of the hopes founded on the alliance with France. All this is matter of history.

The Chevalier de Ternay remained in command of the French naval force in America till his death, which occurred on the 15th of following December, very suddenly, at the house of Dr. William Hunter, father of William Hunter, who was twice elected a member of this body, and afterwards Minister to Brazil, and grandfather of William Hunter so long and honorably connected with the department of state.

The Chevalier de Ternay was buried at Newport. With the liberality in religious matters which, from the beginning, has distinguished the people of Rhode Island, a portion of a Protestant cemetery was set apart for his burial, and consecrated according to the rites of the Roman Catholic church: and in this spot, hallowed by two of the great branches of the Christian faith, the warrior who had fought for two countries, and in many climes, was laid to his long repose. It was in the ground surrounding the venerable and beautiful edifice where Honeyman ministered, and where fiercely worshipped and preached—Trinity church. The body of the dead admiral was borne on the shoulders of the men whom he had commanded. Nine priests chanted the funeral service. The imposing ceremonial of the Roman Catholic church, the pomp of military and naval pageantry, the sorrowing population that thronged around the grave of their friend and ally, fallen in the strength of his manhood and in the fullness of his fame, made the event long remembered as the largest and most distinguished obsequies that had ever been celebrated in that city.

After the peace, the King of France placed a memorial over the grave of the man who had borne his commission on many seas and had served him with so great fidelity. On a slab of Egyptian marble, in letters of gold, an epitaph recounts his services and commemorates his virtues. The epitaph is in Latin. A translation is furnished by an accomplished scholar, Sidney Everett, in a very interesting paper read before the Historical Society at Newport, and since published in the New England Genealogical and Historical Register. It is as follows:

"Charles Louis d'Arsac de Ternay, a Knight of the order of St. John of Jerusalem, though not yet having taken the vows, of old and noble families of Armorican descent, chief of the Admirals of the Royal fleets, a citizen, a soldier and a commander, deserving well of his king and his country, for forty-two years, lies under this marble. Fortunate and bold, after the disaster of St. Croix, in the years 1760-61, in spite of the enemy's attack and with severe labor, he floated off, and got away the royal ships from the dark whirlpool, and after they had been separated by the tortuous windings of the river Vilaine, restored them safe to their stations. In the year 1782, he invaded Newfoundland, in America. In 1772, giving up his command, he devoted himself wholly to governing the islands of France and Bourbon, during seven years, to the advantage of France and the happiness of the colonists. In the year 1780, being sent by his most Christian King with relief to the federal states struggling for liberty, he occupied Rhode Island. While he was preparing himself for new danger, he died in this city, to the grief of his fellow officers, and with the laments and regrets of the federal states, eminent for every virtue and mourned by his friends, on the 15th of December, 1780, aged 58. His most Christian Majesty, the judge of virtue, in order that the memory of a distinguished man should be consecrated to posterity, ordered this monument to be placed here in 1783."

The masonry which supported this marble had crumbled, and the whole structure was falling to decay, when it attracted the notice of the Marquis de Nouilles, the French minister at Washington, who immediately directed it to be repaired, and a granite slab, suitably inscribed, to be placed over it and removed the marble, with the original inscription, renovated and restored, to the interior of the church, where it is to be placed in a perpendicular position, supported by an escutcheon in marble of the Knights Hospitallers of Saint John of Jerusalem.

It seems manifestly improper that the country should permit this pious duty to be performed—I will not say by a stranger, for kinsman of LaFayette cannot be a stranger in America—but by any individual or by any other government. De Ternay did not, like LaFayette, inspired by the love of liberty, volunteer his maiden sword in aid of our struggling nationality; but with willing obedience to the commands of his sovereign, he brought to our assistance skill, experience, and a name renowned in war. His premature death prevented the benefit which the country expected from his services, yet those services, so long as life lasted, were appreciated by both governments. His own government honored his sepulchre, and left it in the charge of ours, on the soil which he had defended, and among the people whom he had succored. We cannot delegate that trust or permit any but the highest authority to administer it.

We must not, in the honors which we pay to the heroes of our own time, forget those deeds which illustrate our earlier annals lest the fame which we now celebrate may, in its turn, be put aside by that which is not brighter in lustre, but nearer to the living generation. But let us hold in equal remembrance those who have identified their names with the glory of the country, from whatever clime they came. And let the coming generations be taught that those who contribute to the defence, the advancement, the renown of the Great Republic, shall never be forgotten but shall live in grateful remembrance, coeval with its immortal life.

It may be proper, although it is not necessary to say that I propose this resolution wholly without the knowledge of the Marquis de Nouilles.

A TOUCHING APPEAL.—One of the justices who presided at the Tombs police court received the following letter from a prisoner, which, in its way, is quite a literary curiosity:

It now appears that the Warden went beyond his duty in supplying Tweed with the dress of a convict. Tweed was sentenced not for larceny but for a misdemeanor, and he should have been furnished with the gray instead of the striped uniform. He is still in the hospital, and as soon as he recovers will be assigned to duty as a hospital nurse—an occupation sufficiently disagreeable and at times repulsive to satisfy his worst personal enemy.—[*N. A Wholesome Stimulant that is Absolutely Pure.

Physicians throughout the world agree as to the necessity for diffusive stimulants in medical practice, but complain, and with good reason, of the possibility of obtaining them pure. The difficulty here presented would be a serious one indeed, if the class of agents was limited to the adulterated liquors and wines of trade. It vanishes, however, when the absolute purity and extraordinary restorative properties of Hostetter's Bitters are taken into consideration. As a stimulant the article is absolutely free from everything objectionable; but this is only one of its recommendations.

If it were nothing more than excitant, its effects would be fleeting. It might refresh and revive the system for a few minutes, but could produce no permanent benefit. The stimulating element of the Bitters is a means, not an end. The tonic, anti-bilious, depurative and aperient vegetable juices combined in the preparation are the agents that impart vigor and regularity to the weakened and disordered organization, the spirituous principle being chiefly useful in diffusing their influence through the system, and otherwise facilitating their operation. Alcohol, even in its purest form, is not so much a medicine as a motive power, by which the specifics of the vegetable kingdom may be brought to bear upon the debilitated and disordered organs, that require renovating and regulating; and it is in this way that the pure essence of rye incorporated in Hostetter's Bitters increases the efficiency of the purely medical ingredients.

Newport Daily News.

FRIDAY, DECEMBER, 19, 1873.

GENERAL NEWS.

FROM WASHINGTON.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 18.—The House was thrown into a turmoil of excitement this morning, by a personal explanation made by Hale of New York, wherein he attacked Wilson of Indiana and Butler of Massachusetts. The matter grew out of the debate, yesterday, on the Salary bill. Hale attacked Wilson's record on this question in the Forty-second Congress, while Wilson showed that Hale was drawing two salaries, one as member of the House and one as counsel for the Government before the British and American Claims Commission. Phrases like "dirty dog," "cur," "dishonesty" and "maker of subterfuges" were freely exchanged. General Butler got in and delivered one of his characteristic speeches on Hale. The House enjoyed the fun immensely. It appears to be in the mood for this sort of business.

PERSONALS.

The funeral of Colonel Dent took place this morning from the Executive Mansion. In addition to the members of the family there were present all the heads of the departments. The remains were placed on the Baltimore & Potomac Railroad train for conveyance to St. Louis, and were accompanied by President Grant, Colonel Grant, Colonel Casey, General F. T. Dent, Marshal Sharpe and General Babcock.

Minister Sickles has announced to the Secretary of State the conciliation of the conflicting interests in the Spanish Cortes and the firm establishment of the Castelar Government.

Acting Assistant Surgeon C. D. White has been ordered to the Boston Navy Yard. Lieutenant Meeker is detached from the torpedo station, ordered to temporary duty on board the Franklin, and on the sailing on with the Canandaigua to report for duty on board of that vessel.

THE HOLIDAY RECESS QUESTION.

The debate in the Senate this evening on the last proposition of the House to adjourn over the holidays was interpreted by Senators to indicate that there will be no adjournment unless the bankrupt bill can be first passed. The Senate is not disposed to accept the house bill, and several lawyers of the body desire to discuss it at length.

THE RIVER AND HARBOR BILL.

The committee on appropriations have had an informal conference with members of the committee on commerce upon the character of the next river and harbor bill, and it is probable that discretion will be given to the Secretary of War to expend as he shall see fit in repairing such works as it is absolutely necessary to continue operations upon—such as will cause a loss to the government to abandon. For the present, small appropriations will be made, but in any event it is not expected to have the total of the bill reach much over one million. Usually it ranges from five to six millions.

PAYING DEBTS.

Congress having passed the act of yesterday authorizing the Secretary of the Treasury to exchange bonds of the loan of 1858, commonly known as fives of 1874, for new 5 per cent. bonds of the funded loan at par, the Secretary is now making such changes on application.

SPAIN.

Minister Sickles has announced to the Secretary of State the conciliation of the conflict interests in the Spanish Cortes and the firm establishment of the Castelar governments.

TREASURY.

The customs receipts for the week ending December 13 were as follows: New York, $1,659,298; Boston, $357,160; Philadelphia, $140,410.

RESURRECTIONISTS.

George A. Christian, late clerk in the surgeon general's office, and Charles Green, both convicted of digging up dead bodies and selling them, were today each sentenced to one year's imprisonment and a fine of $1000.

SENATOR ANTHONY.

Mr. Anthony of Rhode Island, from the committee on printing, reported back the bill to provide for printing, a biennial register or blue book.

GEORGE H. WILLIAMS.

The disposition among the administration Senators is not to adjourn for the holidays until the nomination of Williams as Chief Justice is disposed of. The opposition to Justice is dispos[ed] to continues to gain strength, his confirmation con[sidered] may that if a direct but Williams's friends vote can be had in the Senate he will be confirmed.

NEW YORK.

NEW YORK, Dec 18.—The steamer Edgar Stewart, after successfully landing her cargo of arms and men upon the Island of Cuba, returned to Baltimore on the first of February last, and has ever since been lying at a wharf. Within the past few days the steamer has been undergoing preparations for another run into Cuban waters.

CUBAN MATTERS.

Advices have been received at Cuban headquarters that the insurgents have doubled their besieging forces around Manzanillo and the place must soon fall. Direct communication has been established with other islands of the West Indies, and large amounts of supplies are being received. An entire change will be made in the leading men of the Cuban Junta, and it is believed that General Villigas will succeed Quesada.

CHURCH GOVERNMENT.

In relation to the recent action of the Plymouth church upon the letter from the Clinton avenue church (Dr. Buddington's) and the church of the Pilgrims (Dr. Storrs,) it is stated that at the meeting of the latter churches last evening the following course was decided upon: A council of representatives from the leading Congregationalist churches all over the country will be called and the matter laid before them for their consideration. Whatever they decide upon as the proper course to be taken will be followed by the two churches, who will act together. The action of the council will be final. This method of treating the subject is in accordance with the customs and usages of the denomination. The council will be called as soon as possible.

MISCELLANEOUS.

LONDON, Dec. 18.—3.30 P. M.—The bullion in the Bank of England has increased £193,000 during the week. The proportion of the bank reserve to its liabilities, which last week, was 18¼ per cent., is now 50 per cent. Erie 36½@36¾.

KANSAS CITY, Dec. 18.—It is reported here that the Benders, the notorious Kansas murderers, have been traced to northern Mexico, but in consequence of there being no extradition treaty between the United States and Mexico, they cannot be arrested except by kidnapping, and the present reward is not sufficient to warrant such an undertaking. It is said that efforts will be made in the Kansas Legislature this winter to have the reward increased to a sum sufficient to justify an attempt to kidnap them.

SALT LAKE, Dec. 18.—A heavy shock of an earthquake was felt in Bear Lake Valley at sunrise today.

Chief-Justice McKean has again refused to admit the polygamists to citizenship. In the case yesterday, where the applicant had left a plurality of wives and went herding for subsistence, Judge McKean said that such men would not make good citizens, and had no right to come here to practice a crime which, in their own country, would send them to the penitentiary. Brigham Young's organ, the News, attacks Judge McKean savagely on this account.

CHICAGO, Dec. 18.—The schedule of charges established by the railway commissioners fixing the maximum freight rates, goes into effect 15th January. The superintendent of the Wabash Railway declared his road would not obey it, deeming it unconstitutional. Bills were filed in the circuit court today against the legality of the assessment of the state board of equalization, and against the railroad aid law of 1869, which by agreement will go to the supreme court, to be argued in the January term.

Governor Beveridge refused to respite Rafferty, the murderer of a police officer, and he will be hanged Friday next.

Perteet, the colored wife murderer, will be hanged at Joliet tomorrow.

MADRID, Dec. 17.—The bombardment of Cartagena continued all day. There was a terrible magazine explosion within the insurgent lines today. General Dominiquez offers pardon to all who shall surrender. The insurgents are able still to obtain provisions, but their ammunition is failing.

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 18—The board of return judges of the election on the constitution, met this morning. The official returns show that the majority for the new constitution in this city, is 31,120, an increase of over 7,000 majority reported on the night of the election. It is now supposed the whole majority in the state will reach 200,000.

AMERICAN MACHINERY.—A correspondent of the Iron Age in England remarks on the inferior machinery used there in comparison with our American manufacturers, particularly in the case of using hand instead of machine power: "At Gillets pen manufactory, Birmingham, they have a great number of small screw presses for punching, cutting, etc., which are all worked by foot or hand power, none performing more than one operation at a time. We saw one machine, which was driven by a belt and performed several operations at once, and with ten times the speed of their ordinary machines; but we are told that it did not make as good pens. But when asked the reason why, they could give no satisfactory answer, their prejudice against modern machinery evidently being their only reason. At Roger's cutlery works, employing one thousand men, they discountenance the use of machinery, except for a few simple operations, such as sawing, grinding, etc. After seeing work done in this manner it ceases to be a wonder that America, with her improved machinery, and and even her high price for labor, can hope to successfully compete with Sheffield manufacturers on their own soil."

Why Men Don't Marry.

The Girl of the Period is very much interested in finding out why men are so averse to binding themselves to the matrimonial yoke. She would be the last person in the world to look for the fault in herself, or attempt to apply its remedy. Yet, if she but knew it, luxury is woman's deadly enemy. Here is what William Makepeace Thackeray said on the subject: "And here's the wreck of two lives! Pretty, merry Letty Lovelace's rudder lost and she cast away: and handsome Jack Spiggott stranded on the shore, like a drunken Triuculo.

"What was it that insulted nature (to use no higher name), and perverted her kindly intentions towards them? What cursed frost was it that nipped the love that both were bearing, and condemned the girl to sour sterility, and the lad to selfish old bachelorhood?

"It was the infernal Snob Tyrant who governs us all; who says: 'Thou shalt not love without a carriage and horses; thou shalt have no wife in thy heart and no children on thy knee without a page in buttons or a French bonne; thou shalt go to the devil unless thou hast a brougham. Marry poor and society shall forsake thee: they kinsmen shall avoid thee as a criminal; thy aunts and thy uncles shall turn up their eyes and bemoan "the sad manner" in which Tom or Harry has "thrown himself away."'

"You, young woman, may sell yourself without shame, and marry old Croesus. You, young man, may lie away your heart and your life for a jointure. But you are poor, woe be to you! Society, the brutal snob autocrat, consigns you to solitary perdition. Wither, poor girl, in your garret; rot, poor bachelor, in your club."

PAIN-KILLER!

FOR OVER THIRTY YEARS

Perry Davis' Vegetable Pain-Killer

Has been tested in every variety of climate, and by almost every nation known to Americans.

It is the constant companion and estimable friend of the missionary and traveler, on sea and land, and no one should travel on our Lakes or Rivers without it.

It has been before the public over thirty years, and probably has a wider and better reputation than any other proprietary medicine of the present day. At this period there are but few unacquainted with the merits of the Pain-Killer; but while some extol it as a liniment, they know but little of its power in easing pain when taken internally, while others use internally with great success, but are equally ignorant of its healing virtues when applied externally. We therefore wish to say to all that it is equally successful whether used internally or externally, and it stands today, unrivalled by all the great catalogue of family medicines. It is sufficient evidence of its virtues as a standard medicine, to know that it is now used in all parts of the world and that its sale is constantly increasing. No curative agent has had such a wide spread sale or given such universal satisfaction. It is a purely vegetable compound, and perfectly safe in unskillful hands.

After thirty years trial, is still receiving the most unqualified testimonials to its virtues, from persons of the highest character and responsibility. Physicians of the first respectability, recommend it as a most effectual preparation for the extinction of pain. It is not only the best remedy ever known for Bruises, Cuts, Burns, &c., but for Dysentery or Cholera or any sort of bowel complaint, it is a remedy unsurpassed for efficiency and rapidity of action. In the great cities of India, and other hot climates, it has become the Standard Medicine for all such complaints, as well as for Dyspepsia, Liver Complaints, and other kindred disorders. For Coughs and Colds, Canker, Asthma, and Rheumatic difficulties, it has been proved by the most abundant and convincing testimony to be an invaluable medicine.

BEWARE OF ALL IMITATIONS.

The Pain-Killer is sold by all respectable druggists throughout the United States and foreign countries.

Prices—25 cents, 50 cents and $1 per bottle.

FRIDAY, DECEMBER 19, 1873.

Religious Songs of the Negroes.

The song oftenest sung during the second years of the war was that rare melody, Roll, Jordan, roll. Sometimes it began,

"Mass Linkum sittin' on de tree ob life,
Watchin' Jordan roll;
Gen'l Fremont sittin' on de tree ob life,
Roll, Jordan, roll."

and so on, through a list of all the public men dear to the negro heart. At another time it began with the name of the pastor of the church, or the leader of the meeting, and enumerated a dozen or twenty brethren and sisters as to whose religious standing there could be no doubt.

I remember that, on one occasion, a singer introduced the name of "Brudder Brown" when the singing was interrupted by a woman with, "Does you mean Brudder Peter Brown? Caze if you means Fairfax Brown I calls for order!" A satisfactory explanation followed, whereupon the conductor of the meeting asked another brother to "lead in prayer for Fairfax Brown, and pray that he may return from his backslidin'." Frequently the song began with,

"Lo'd Jesus sitting on the tree ob life, and brought in the names of Moses, Joshua, Elijah, David, Solomon, John, and pretty much everybody else of good report in the Bible, duly elevating them to a position on "de tree ob life, watchin' Jordan roll." At times the white visitor could not help smiling at the placing there of certain public men: yet it was never otherwise than delightful to hear the packed audience strike the notes of this joyful and swinging and resonant melody.—Sidney Andrews in Atlantic Monthly for December.
Watchin' Jordan roll";

A FINE BARN.—Governor Smith, of Vermont, is building a splendid barn, 100x150 feet, of brick, which is thus described in the St. Albans Transcript: The central part is four stories high, including the basement, and the whole is divided into three parts by partition walls of brick. In the central part of the first floor above the basement is the carriage-room, 50x70 feet. Large weighing scales will be inserted in the floor. In one corner will be an office, and a room for steam-power, with which to cut and grind the feed for horses and cattle. Running up from this floor to the fourth story, which will be devoted to the storage of threshed grain, will be an elevator, while in the opposite corner will be a feed-room. The two rooms north and south of the one described of this floor are each 40x100 feet—one for cattle and the other for horses and cattle. There will be a row of stalls on each side with a wide passage between and doors at each end allowing of the passage of teams through the cow stalls. A shallow trench behind the cattle stalls will hold the water and absorbants, which, with the solid excrements will be precipitated into the manure below. The third floor contains three lofts for hay, estimated to be sufficient to contain 265 tons. The basement or cellar contains three rooms connected by large doors, allowing of the free passage of teams to all parts. Here will be conveniences for storing roots, mash, &c., as well as manure. A tank for water sixteen feet in diameter will extend from this basement to the roof, and be filled with water from the bay by wind power. The pressure of a column of water of that height must necessitate a tank of immense strength. A tank on each floor may be intended.

Women at School.

Archbishop Whateley used to hold that there was one characteristic distinction between men and women. When men, he said, were spoken of disparagingly as a whole they were apt to coincide; but when any particular man was attacked they usually stood up for him and did their best to show that he was not such a bad sort of fellow after all. On the other hand—this was Whateley's theory, and we accept no responsibility for it—women were extremely sensitive as to the general character of their sex, while quite ready to join in cutting up the sisterhood in detail. It would be interesting to know what feelings will be excited in the female mind by the report which has just been issued by the Cambridge Syndicate on the examination of women. The syndicate affect to report, on the whole, very favorably of the industry and intelligence of the majority of the candidates who appeared before them at the different centres, but they take upon themselves to make some remarks which, we fear, will be thought to be offensively characteristic of the arrogance and presumption of man.

We have very little doubt that women will see through the flimsy pretence of courtesy and conciliation under which the examiners endeavor to disguise this attack upon the general character of the sex, and especially on those very points on which women are known to be most sensitive. A woman will stand a good deal, but no woman with the least spirit ever submitted without an explosion to an insinuation that she was not a person of a logical turn of mind.

7 Per Cent. Bonds,

ISSUED FOR CONSTRUCTION OF WATER-WORKS UNDER ACT OF LEGISLATURE,

PASSED APRIL 27, 1872.

Rochester possesses the elements of prosperity unexcelled, if equalled, by any other city in this State. It is the centre of trade to a surrounding population of about 500,000, to whom the means of transportation are furnished by Railroads radiating to it in the city in eleven different directions.

Its indebtedness, excluding this Loan, is less than $1,850,000, while it has Public Property amounting to about $2,350,000, and Private Real Estate valued at $70,000,000.

The bonds are issued in either Coupon or Registered form, the Registered being transferable at the office of the Union Trust Company of New York, where both principal and interest is payable.

SIXTEEN OIL PAINTINGS IN A BOOK!

Never before was such an idea attempted for book illustration; every one who has seen it pronounces it SUPERB. Mrs. Harriet Beecher Stowe's latest work,

Women in Sacred History,

is a series of narrative sketches, drawn from Scriptural, historical, and legendary sources, ILLUSTRATED WITH SIXTEEN CHOICE OIL CHROMOS, after paintings by the most celebrated artists of the world, giving a rich and magnificent variety of Oriental costume and beauty. Mrs. Stowe in her charming style has written a book full of interest, and without a dull page in it, which even if not illustrated would sell rapidly; but the

BRILLIANT OIL-COLOR PICTURES

make it one of the most unique, original, and remarkable books ever offered. The pictures, if published separately, would readily sell for $2 each—or $32, while the entire book, with the sixteen pictures, together with sumptuous bindings of the volume, can be had for one-fifth of that amount. The book is published in ENGLISH and in GERMAN, and is making a tremendous

Iron in the Blood

MAKES THE WEAK STRONG.

The Peruvian Syrup, a Protected Solution of the Protoxide of Iron, is so combined as to have the character of an ailment, as easily digested and assimilated with the blood as the simplest food. It increases the quantity of Nature's Own Vitalizing Agent, Iron in the blood, and cures "a thousand ills," simply by Toning up, Invigorating and Vitalizing the System. The enriched and vitalized blood permeates every part of the body, repairing damages and waste, searching out morbid secretions, and leaving nothing for disease to feed upon.

This is the secret of the wonderful success of this remedy in curing Dyspepsia, Liver Complaint, Dropsy, Chronic Diarrhœa, Boils, Nervous Affections, Chills and Fevers, Humors, Loss of Constitutional Vigor, Diseases of the Kidneys and Bladder, Female Complaints, and all diseases originating in a bad state of the blood, or accompanied by debility or a low state of the system. Being free from Alcohol, in any form, its energizing effects are not followed by corresponding reaction, but are permanent, infusing strength, vigor, and new life into all parts of the system, and building up an Iron Constitution.

Thousands have been changed by the use of this remedy, from weak, sickly, suffering creatures, to strong, healthy, and happy men and women; and invalids cannot reasonably hesitate to give it a trial.

See that each bottle has PERUVIAN SYRUP blown in the glass.
